Do Investors Value Higher Financial-Reporting Quality, and Can Expanded Audit Reports Unlock This Value? W. Brooke Elliott 2020 We present new theory and experimental findings indicating that investors ascribe value to firms that use higher financial-reporting quality (FRQ), controlling for the influence of higher FRQ on their estimates of these firms' fundamental value. To guide our investigation, we draw on the cooperation literature in accounting, finance and psychology. We identify expanded audit reports, particularly auditor commentary, as a mechanism that credibly communicates whether a firm uses higher FRQ. Auditor commentary increases investors' willingness to pay (WTP) more to own shares of a firm using higher FRQ than a competing firm using lower FRQ. We also provide process evidence that investors perceive higher FRQ as cooperative behavior by measuring their affective responses and cognitive beliefs, which mediate the influence of audit commentary on investors' increased WTP for higher FRQ. A second experiment bolsters the link between investors' affective and cognitive responses to a firm's FRQ and perceived cooperative behavior. Overall, we contribute to the accounting literature by motivating a reinterpretation of studies on value relevance and mispricing. We also provide theory and evidence that there is greater value in expanded audit reports than previously understood, and this value likely has standard-setting and audit-pricing implications.

Federal Tax Accounting Michael B. Lang 2011 This new edition of Federal Tax Accounting, part of the Graduate Tax Series, has been updated with new problems, discussions, commentary, analysis, and additional coverage of many topics. Chapters 1 and 7 have been substantially revised and reorganized. Chapters 5, 6, and 7 have expanded text with more examples and few but more focused problems. Other changes include: Revised and expanded discussion of "taxable year" with problems, now in the first chapter; Expanded discussion of tax accounting vs. financial accounting; Discussion of Section 409A regulations, with a new problem; Expanded discussion of inventories, with additional problems; Additional commentary on accrual of income of doubtful collectability and bad debts, including Trinity Indus. v. Commissioner and Rendall v. Commissioner; Updated discussion of Section 448(d) (5) regulations on non-accrual experience method; New problem dealing with trade discounts, in light of Westpac Pacific Foods v. Commissioner and the Advance Trade Discount Method of Rev. Proc. 2007-53; Updated material on proposed regulations on capitalization of tangible property expenditures; Expanded treatment of advertising expenditures; Expanded discussion of investment interest, prepaid interest and personal interest, including Chief Counsel Adv. 2009-11-007, applying qualified residence interest limitation per residence as well as per taxpayer; Expanded explanation of original issue discount and market premium with examples; Commentary on gifts of the use of property in light of the Dickman decision and the Section 7872 regulations; Extensive additional text and explanation, with examples, of various aspects of installment reporting, with fewer, more focused problems; A new section on installment sales coupled with a like-kind exchange with boot, with example and problem; Expanded discussion of NOL carryovers, including the text of Rev. Rul. 81-88 and commentary; Comment on accrual method issues similar to those in United States v. Lewis; and, Expanded detailed analysis and discussion of Section 1341, with the text of Rev. Rul. 68-153, Zadoff v. United States, and Barrett v. Commissioner. The sophisticated realistic problems with a transactional focus are an integral part of Federal Tax Accounting. These problems require careful analysis and application of the code and regulation provisions, administrative pronouncements, case law, and other relevant sources. Perhaps more important for a graduate tax program, the problems not only require careful analysis, but the application requires dealing with situations in which the most careful reading of the materials does not supply the answer. The Teacher's Manual, available only to professors, contains sample syllabi and comprehensive analysis of the problems presented in the coursebook.

It includes simple step-by-step procedures of a prospective (i.e. future-oriented) financial statement simulation and closes with a comprehensive real-life case study that demonstrates a practical application of the analytical tools discussed earlier in the text. Additionally, the textbook includes online appendices consisting of additional comprehensive real-life case studies (of varying degrees of complexity and dealing with different aspects of a practical financial statement analysis), a set of MS Excel files that contain all major calculations included in tables and charts that appear in the core textbook, and a set of webinars in which the most fundamental parts of the core textbook are discussed in the form of the recorded lectures.
